

I pay for XM radio, and should have the right to have local programming included. My local radio stations are nothing more than ads and useless information. If they cannot compete with a pay per use service when they are a free service they should examine their own programming and make changes to compete. The NAB is trying to use the FCC to fight their battles for them, and eliminate their competition.